Packermania News

In the past week, we've been doing crafts. They're made out of felt, styrofoam, and wooden blocks. We have to be careful because they're delicate. I wonder what we'll do next? We try something new every day.

We made tie-dyed t-shirts on Monday, green and gold of course. We also made Packer ornaments.

For Training Camp, we did another tire drill, and we tried punting this week too.

For the Walk Across America program, we earned four states in school. After we earn all 50 states, we get a t-shirt. To earn a state, you need to be physically active for 30 minutes.

On Friday, we are going to tour Lambeau Field, and go to the Green Bay Packer Hall Of Fame.

The Packers signed seventh round draft pick William Whittaker. He was a guard for Michigan State. He was the second of two picks in the seventh round for the Packers.

Since mini camp is over and training camp hasn't started yet, current Packer news is a little slow this week. Maybe we'll hear more next week.
